Gary,

I've attached all the emails that I've created. I'm not positive that we've actually ran all of them. We don't actually email the images. We typically host them from our website and include a link to them in the email. This may be why you had trouble printing them before.

I hope this helps.
 Thanks,

Brian

Re: In the matter of Basic Research, LLC, et al.
Docket No. 9318

Dear Mr. Millard:

I write to respond to the subpoena duces tecum that Western Holdings, LLC ("Western Holdings") received in the above-entitled action. Western Holdings is an entity whose function is to hold intellectual property which is leased to certain Respondents, such as Klein-Becker usa, LLC. Pursuant to its function, Western Holdings has submitted applications for copyrights, trademarks, and patents to the United States Patent and Trademark Office and United States Copyright Office. All such applications are available to you from these agencies.

Although I have conducted and completed a search of the files of Western Holdings, this search did not uncover any other documents responsive to your subpoena.

In providing this response, I have interpreted Exhibit A of the Subpoena as requiring an affidavit only if responsive documents are returned by mail. As we are not returning any responsive documents, we have not provided an affidavit.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Val Weight", written in a cursive style.

Re: In the matter of Basic Research, LLC, et al.
Docket No. 9318

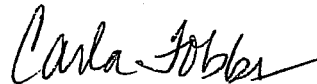

Dear Mr. Millard:

I am writing in response to the subpoena that was sent to Majestic Enterprises, Inc. Majestic Enterprises formerly provided employee leasing services and currently provides management services under the name of DG Enterprises for certain of the Respondents. The performance of these services is unrelated to the amount of sales or development of the "challenged products" referred to in the subpoena.

The compensation an employee received through Majestic Enterprises is unrelated to the development or the amount of sales of the "challenged products" referred to in the subpoena. As a result, although I have conducted and completed a search of the files of Majestic Enterprises, that search did not uncover any documents responsive to the above-referenced subpoena.

In providing this response, I have interpreted Exhibit A of the Subpoena as requiring an affidavit only if responsive documents are returned by mail. As we are not returning any responsive documents, we have not provided an affidavit.

Sincerely,

Klein-Becker Support Message Board: Klein Becker Product Testimonials: Dermalin Testimonials

By Editor on Thursday, December 12, 2002 - 11:55 am

Emma from Idaho has been using Dermalin for about three weeks and has already lost 3 inches off of her hips and 1 inch off of her thighs.

Doreen Miller, Wisconsin

Keri from Texas has been using Dermalin for about 3 1/2 weeks and absolutely loves it. She has been using it on her legs, which have been a problem area for her. She works out at the gym 6 days a week doing weight training and cardio. She says that she can tell Dermalin is working for her because she can fit into her "skinny pants" again. She has gotten so many compliments at the gym from both her instructors and men. She says a lot of people ask what her secret is.

Abbie called and wanted to thank our company for creating Dermalin. She has used it on her double chin and it has completely disappeared. She now has a clean chin line. She is starting on her tummy area and is excited about the results that she is having with the product.

Keri from Texas has been using Dermalin for about 3 1/2 weeks and absolutely loves it. She has been using it on her legs, which have been a problem area for her. She works out at the gym 6 days a week doing weight training and cardio. She says that she can tell Dermalin is working for her because she can fit into her "skinny pants" again. She has gotten so many compliments at the gym from both her instructors and men. She says a lot of people ask what her secret is. Abbie called and wanted to thank our company for creating Dermalin. She has used it on her double chin and it has completely disappeared. She now has a clean chin line. She is starting on her tummy area and is excited about the results that she is having with the product.

Veronica is a model and size 3, but had cellulite on her thighs. She said that this was her last try before going to the doctor to get liposuction. After just a week she was at a photo shoot and her photographer asked her if she got liposuction. Her body fat had dropped down to an incredible 11½ percent after just one month. Now she has no need for surgery.

Victoria Drost, San Bernardino, CA

I have been using your Dermalin product on my upper arms for 34 days. I had very bad cellulite in this area. Most all of the cellulite is now gone. I eat a healthy diet and exercise regularly. I can hardly believe it! Nothing else ever worked like this before. Thank you so much!

Janae is 51 years old and has always had a problem with her left hip. It had a large bulge and she was embarrassed about its lumpiness. She has tried everything "and then some," but nothing ever worked. Then she used Dermalin for only 1-½ weeks and began noticing a difference. Her left hip slimmed down, and her pants size has gone from a 9 to a 5. She says "I just can't say enough about the research you have done to actually develop a product that isn't another joke to the public but a fine researched product that honest and truly works." She has gained confidence and energy, and says that using Dermalin was a life-changing event for her.

Jayce Carter, Virginia Beach, VA

Davis wrote in to say "Thank you! Thank you! Thank you! . . . Since beginning using the Dermalin-Apogee in August, the change is amazing, not only have I lost inches but the cellulite is almost gone! Gone! Gone! And the texture of my skin after a bath and applying Dermalin is incredible! If I did not know how my thighs looked before I never would have believed it could happen. . . Thank you all at Klein-Becker for putting out a truly revolutionary product."

Melinda's sister recommended Dermalin to her. It has worked so well for her that she calls it "snake oil" after those magical elixirs of old that claimed to cure all ailments. She is so happy that it actually works.

Elisa Falso,
Lockport, NY

Elisa has used Dermalin for 3 months and says her pants are not as tight around the waist and that they are more comfortable now. She says "It truly has made my life a lot happier! It's given me a real sense of hope! I can visibly see the difference, especially right after a night's use."

I have been using Dermalin for a little over a month and I have lost nothing. At first I was using it twice a day and didn't do exercise, 3 weeks i lost nothing. After the third week I realized I have to work out so that it would work. It has been 2 weeks and I have lost nothing also. On the bottle it says to use 1 or 2 times daily. The last 2 weeks I have forgotten to put it on at bedtime. could this be the reason it isn't working for me? Do I HAVE to use it 2 times a day to get results. I hope I am not one of the unfortunate ones that it doesn't work on. This cream is expensive and I would hate to have lost all that money to something that didn't work for me.

Am I doing something wrong?

By Editor on Monday, April 21, 2003 - 12:12 pm.

If you are exercising, specifically cardiovascular exercise then you will see results,some women take longer to see results than others, I know not fair, but stick with it and I know you will have success.
No, you do not have to use it twice a day, but try to remember to, it will still work using it once a day.And remember if you purchased the Dermalin from Klein Becker or a GNC than we have the full money back guarantee so you wind up losing not one penny if for whatever reason you are not satisfied with the product.

I have been using the Strivectin only for a short while now, I am very hopeful that it will work on my stretch marks but as i was reading thru the other products you have I noticed Dermalin. This sounds very exciting and I would also like to try this product. Since the stretch marks are in my lower abs and upper hips, can I use the Dermalin in the same location at the same time? In addition to the stretch marks, I have been unable to get this area back to the way it was before my beautiful 3 girls which is my reason for wanting to try the Dermalin.

By Editor on Tuesday, July 22, 2003 - 02:03 pm.

Yes you can use both products together, they both work so well you are going to just love them!

By Anonymous on Friday, January 30, 2004 - 11:39 am.

Have anyone used this product lately? Does it really work and if it didn't did you get your money back.

By Jana on Monday, August 09, 2004 - 09:26 am.

Dermalin is great! I've started an exercise program and augmented it with Dermalin. This way I can reduce the areas I want - not the ones my body wants. I've used it for 2 weeks and lost an entire inch off my double-chin ... it's almost non-existent. I've also slimmed down my hips, at this point I can slip into my favorite jeans and they're not tight. It's worked so well that I actually look forward to exercising because then the results from Dermalin are even more noticeable. This stuff is like liposuction in a bottle ... except without the drawbacks.

Hi Jana,

Thanks for sharing with all of us. I agree, the Dermalin is a great product. Keep up the good work!

Hello Kathleen, thank you for taking the time to email us on the [REDACTED]. We do not recommend the use of this product for under the age of 18 just in case some sort of serious health problem did occur. If you are interested in using it I would recommend first of all discussing it with your doctor and your parents. Please let us know if you have anymore questions or concerns.

Thanks again

Good day!

My father has purchased two of your products, the [REDACTED] and the PediaLean for children. I am confused however as to why the latter is not to be used by under 18 year olds. What risks are there (if any) if I should use the [REDACTED]? I am a healthy 15 year old girl. I play soccer and I don't think the discomforts that come with taking the product can bother me. I really would like to use the product. I am not really fat, but there are just some body fat in different parts of my body which I need to get rid of. I would very much appreciate your immediate response to this e-mail. Thank you so much and I hope to hear from you soon!

Dear Tashia,

Thank you for taking the time to email us. Below the ages of 18, we recommend one of our greatest products called the Pedialean. Basically, what pedialean does for is restrict your caloric intake to the point where you will not eat and snack as you normally would. We have received an overwhelming response from our customers who have seen great and safe results, and you could experience them too

If you have any further questions, please let us know.

Dear [REDACTED]

Thank you for taking the time to email us. Pedialean should not be causing any of these symptoms unless he is allergic to the product. You can always consult a physician in that instance. However just to let you know, all it consists of is a micronized fiber that when is ingested it expands in the stomach causing a feeling of fullness. This helps kids to avoid overeating. Unless your child is over eleven we usually do not recommend that you take three capsules, twice a day. Feel free to contact us again if you have anymore concerns. Thank you!

Hello.

A patient came to me last week with a page from a women's magazine and questions regarding your products. As a physician, I can hardly give recommendations based only upon the information on your website. I've been attempting to obtain information regarding the journal citations on the following products: Luprinol (Leptogluterin) and Dermalin-APg (Epidril gel). When I used the online chat service, I was given bogus information (journal name and volume without providing the article title, author or publication month and date). Any physician knows that it is nearly impossible to locate a journal article from among the masses with something as vague as "Obesity Research, volume 3 supplement 4). Do you have any idea how many articles were in that volume and supplement? The same goes for the other citations (Clinical Therapeutics volume 9 #6; and Journal of the American College of Nutrition volume 16 #5). I spent nearly one hour today trying to sort through all of the articles in those journal volumes, and had no luck finding the articles which support the research on your product.

Then, your online chat person, Melanie, provided me a phone number to contact: 1-800-572-6502. This number was a messaging service, and I had to enter my phone number. I did; however, I do not expect a call back since my medical practice is with the Army in Germany, and the phone number that I entered was overseas.

I have found it extremely frustrating to find clinical information on products which were supposedly presented at the annual meeting of the North American Association for the Study of Obesity and which are reportedly "medically proven." Please have someone contact me who is capable of answering my simple question (the full journal citation for the product research). As a busy physician, I barely have the time to research my patient's products, as a good doctor would. Please make this easier for me to do!

Thank you for your time.

Hi Dennis:

I haven't heard from you so here's an update:

We're finishing the testing of TriVestin in one of the TNF assays (anti-inflammatory).

We also have most impressive results in the screening of the OTC and GNC libraries for the same anti-inflammatory assay.

We are hard at work on the new lubrexa formulation, with results coming shortly.

We have not heard from you about the dancing rats; we'd like to discuss the most recent data and find out what you're thinking.

We've still not received a check for the Anorex, and we need to get paid for the last two or three months for ongoing research (I've left messages for Val Waite).

I've not heard back from you on the proposal I gave you recently. Since we spoke I set up a meeting with both the head of technology transfer at Boston University (September 26th), and the head of the ventures department at Harvard (October 3rd). Also, I've spoken with Dr. Gullans and a new researcher from Harvard, Dr. Friedlander about anti-aging related products.

Dr. Kopin from Tufts New England Medical Center is looking into the idea of something for acid reflux (heartburn), and my brother is sending me information on the Chinese herbs known to be useful for this condition.

On the project I told you about last week is one that relates to "pulsus paradoxus." You and Mitch asked me how much it would cost to modify a blood pressure monitor to get the "pulsus" reading. The answer to this question is $0.00. Once you modify the existing electronics to capture the data, the additional cost per unit is zero.

Other new issues: we have rights to a pending patent for the use of resveratrol (a naturally-occurring anti-oxidant found in red wine) to treat people with toxicities associated with cancer (mouth sores/ diarrhea and fatigue). We have both in vivo, and in vitro data to support the claims of the patent and a supportive body of literature to bolster claims as well. If this is of interest, let me know.

We are in the process of researching cardioprotective food supplements using the bioinformatics tool. We hope to find something you can test in our special hypercholesteremic rats. If the supplement works, you could get videos (like the dancing rats) of healthy rats in the treatment groups, compared to sickly rats dying of heart attacks in the control groups.

More to come....

Good morning Dennis:

Today is Thursday. I have yet to hear from you despite some critical issues on the table. TJM has a major royalty issue (1/2 the royalty is still due), and you claim to have an interest in a license for some extremely valuable joint lubrication technology.

I cannot understand how you can expect that we should conduct business with you, when it is almost impossible to reach you and communicate with you for long stretches of time.

When you are available, things seem to go rather well, but then you pull a true "disappearing act" and we have no idea what's going on. Then we're relegated to trying to catch you on the fly, and it makes our relationship a farce.

I would like to speak with you immediately; if not, I need to go back to being a lawyer and by sending demand letters and protecting our client's interests. At some point, Dennis, if this behavior continues, I'm going to stop being a sensitive, understanding vendor/licensee/business associate, and start being a formidable adversary. And if you think I'm good at the former, you should see how good I am at the latter.

By the way, I'm still your friend...so don't overreact to the foregoing. Just call.

The cutting gel is giving us very similar results as in the previous study (although we are measuring less in the formulation than you said it should contain).

However, Ab solution is showing no aminophylline in the product nor in the skin.
